Vice President Fred Olsson presided in the place of President Fiske who was ill.

A short business meeting was held immediately after the dinner.

The only Standing Committee report was from our Municipal Affairs Committee, through its chairman, Edwin R. Sage, who stated that although our association had previously gone on record as opposed to the granting of tavern licenses in Harvard Square, that in view of the fact the the Cambridge License Commission felt this type of license was less objectionable, and after a hearing at city hall before the local license commission on the petition for such a license at 41 Boylson Street, and later a conference of said license board with our Directors, that your directors voted unanimously not to oppose the granting of this license as an experiment. The report of the committee was accepted.

Mr. Sage called attention to the problem of traffic congestion in Somerville and Cambridge, in the Northern Artery, Alewife Brook boulevard and Concord Avenue, and stated our local planning board has a practical plan to relieve this condition. Mr. Sage made a motion, which was unanimously carried, to invite the members of the Cambridge Planning Board together with Messrs. Van Ness Bates and Francis J. Roche Esq. to discuss this problem.

The speaker of the evening, Mr. Jerome D. Greene, secretary of the committee in charge of the coming Harvard University tercentenary celebration to be held in 1936, was then introduced. RAPID TRANSIT DISCUSSED FOR BUSINESS MEN

Mr. Bates explained

a connection by a subway and a vehicular highway, from Lechmere square through Somerville, where rapid transit is much needed, to connect at North Cambridge with the new Concord highway forming a convenient outlet from Boston to the Mohawk trail. This plan he claimed is much less expensive than a subway extension under Massachusetts avenue from Harvard Square, and it would give needed relief to Somerville traffic.

Councilor Roche followed with a detailed argument pointing out the special advantages to Cambridge and Harvard Square.

Planning Board

Mr. Downey said the planning board had been puzzled by the fact that the completed Concord highway would reach the Alewife brook and then have "no place to go," but they had devised three separate plans, all of which seemed entirely feasible, and none of them would involve an expense of millions of dollars, as proposed by the other speakers. He explained these routes on prepared diagrams and said the board is anxious to get public opinion as to which route would be most desirable. The problem is to bring traffic by some uncongested path from the new Concord highway to the North station.

Plan No. 1 would be to construct a traffic circle at the intersection of Alewife brook and Massachusetts avenue. Plan No. 2 would be to connect the Concord highway across land in the rear of the Dix Lumber Company, continuing into Harvey street. Still a third plan is to come off the Concord highway at a point on the Alewife parkway, where Rindge avenue comes in, and along and parallel to the railroad, to Porter square, passing under Porter square up into Somerville avenue.

The plan calls for a highway 100 feet wide giving ample room for the heaviest traffic.
